Kirk:

I thought you would be interested in the attached tabulations summarizing responses from new building^{25X1} questionnaires which is 87.7% of those scheduled to move.

I know that you will be as gratified as I am to see that we will have no serious personnel turnover problems with only 110 employees foreseeing personal problems connected with the move.

SECRETTHE DIRECTOR

You may be interested in glancing at the attached tabulations of the replies received from the new building questionnaire.

The significant feature is that out of [] replies (87.7% of those scheduled to move), only 110 have indicated that personal problems will make it impossible for them to continue with the Agency. Most of these are in the lower grades, and I think that we will have no serious personnel turnover problems.
